If you or I died what would you think it would look like? ADD YOUR STORY

Chapter 2 by Gabbathehutt

I personally think it would look like everything is already but with a hint of whitish-gray. I would be able to see family and friends and we could be happy again.

Chapter 3 by juni

I think that everything when you died would turn black all your memory's would drive through your head, then a white light would surround your vision, once everything cleared all your ancestors or dead family members would be standing next to you. They would be winged and covered in a flash of blinding white lights. That's what I would imagine what could be possibly be the truth of what heaven is.
